Hazardous and Bulky Waste Disposal

Hazardous waste, including computers and other e-waste, should not be disposed of in your trash. All hazardous waste MUST be taken to one the Metro Hazardous Waste facilities in Oregon City or Portland. Metro has extensive information on what constitutes hazardous waste and how to dispose of it correctly. To safely dispose of e-waste, up to seven computers, monitors, laptops and televisions can be recycled for free through Oregon E-Cycles.

Information about disposing of or recycling bulky waste, such as appliances, large plastic items, unusable furniture, and more, can be found here.

Waste Prevention

Recycling is great, but reducing your waste in the first place is an even better way to put the lid on your trash and conserve resources. Read on to find waste prevention, recycling, and reuse options.
