In tandem with its mission, the Lake Oswego Public Library provides a forum where staff, volunteers, citizens, city employees and other partners work together to create, educate, share, engage, and preserve.

The library succeeds in these activities by:

Publishing: In Their Own Words, book and audio oral histories, Diary Of a Young Boy - the Will Pomeroy Diary, Mink River audiobook, and many electronically converted scrapbooks, original documents, and historic photographs.

Sponsoring/Producing: Lake Oswego Reads, Storytelling Festival, Music, Author, and Performing Arts programs, Summer Reading and Storytimes.

Educating: Computer, Internet and technology classes and seminars, in-house programs on job searching, resume writing, college application process.

Providing a Community and Resource Center: Provide high quality, high demand materials, resources and face-to-face reference help from Reference Librarians, as well as online Reference.

Conserving: Local historic materials are collected, cataloged, preserved and made available to the public through the Local History Collection.

Providing a Gathering Place: The library provides a physical location for community gathering in a society that is becoming more and more geared toward social media for human connection. This gathering place fosters a sense of community identity based on shared interests in entertainment, education and creativity.
