

Resource Conservation Protection Area (RCPA) and Habitat Benefit Area (HBA) Determination

A Resource Conservation (RC) Protection Area is a portion of a delineated RC District (tree grove) that is required to be identified and protected from development prior to obtaining a building permit or a major or minor development permit on a property containing an RC District. Similarly, a Protection Area shall be established where a property owner elects to use the Habitat Benefit Area (HBA) incentives of LOC 50.05.010.7.

Additional information is provided in the document listed below.

Supporting Documents

Resource Conservation Protection Area \(RCPA\) and Habitat Benefit Area \(HBA\) Determination, 10/11/16

Source URL (retrieved on 12/12/2017 - 11:21pm):

<https://www.ci.oswego.or.us/planning/resource-conservation-protection-area-rcpa-and-habitat-benefit-area-hba-determination>